

Real Estate Motivated Seller Cold Calling Script

Free cold-calling resource from Televista

PURPOSE: Generate appointments with homeowners who may be motivated to sell their property below market value. Works for wholesalers, investors, and acquisition teams.

OPENING (Pattern Interrupt)

"Hey [First Name], this is [Your Name] — I'm reaching out because I noticed your property on [Street Name]. I work with a group of local buyers, and honestly, I just had a quick question for you. Do you have about 60 seconds?"

[If they say yes, continue. If they ask what this is about:]

"Totally fair — I'm not trying to sell you anything. We buy houses in the [City/County] area, and your property came up on our list. I was just curious if you've given any thought to selling, even if it's down the road."

QUALIFICATION QUESTIONS

Ask these conversationally. Do NOT interrogate. Listen more than you talk.

1. MOTIVATION:

"What's your current situation with the property? Are you living there, renting it out, or is it sitting vacant?"

[If renting:] "How's that going for you? Keeping you up at night or running pretty smooth?"

2. TIMELINE:

"If you did decide to sell, is there a timeframe you'd be working with — like something in the next few weeks, or more of a 'maybe someday' thing?"

3. PROPERTY CONDITION:

"On a scale of 1 to 10, how would you rate the condition? Any major repairs you've been putting off — roof, foundation, HVAC, anything like that?"

4. PRICE FLEXIBILITY:

"Have you had the property appraised recently, or do you have a ballpark number in mind for what you'd want to walk away with?"

[If they give a number:] "Got it. And is there any flexibility there, or is that pretty firm?"

5. MORTGAGE/LIENS:

"Do you still owe anything on it, or is it free and clear?"

OBJECTION HANDLING

OBJECTION: "I'm not interested."

RESPONSE: "I completely understand — most people aren't when I first call. I'm not asking you to commit to anything. If I could make you a no-obligation cash offer within 24 hours, would it at least be worth hearing? If it doesn't work for you, no hard feelings."

OBJECTION: "How did you get my number?"

RESPONSE: "Great question — your property showed up on a list we use to find homeowners who might benefit from a cash offer. I know it's a little unexpected, but I promise this isn't a robocall situation. I'm a real person and I'll be quick. Is there any chance you've thought about selling?"

OBJECTION: "I'm already working with someone."

RESPONSE: "No problem at all — are you listed with an agent, or are you talking to another investor? [If agent:] How long have you been on the market? [If investor:] Have they actually made you a written offer yet? Sometimes it helps to have a backup option."

OBJECTION: "What are you going to offer me?"

RESPONSE: "Honestly, I can't throw out a number without seeing the property and running the numbers. What I can tell you is we close fast — usually 2 to 3 weeks — and we cover all the closing costs. No commissions, no repairs needed. Would it be worth 15 minutes for me to come take a look and get you a real number?"

OBJECTION: "I'm not selling."

RESPONSE: "Totally respect that. Just out of curiosity — is there a price that would change your mind? I'm not trying to pressure you. Sometimes people have a 'magic number' and if we can hit it, great. If not, I'll take you off my list."

CLOSING / APPOINTMENT SETTING

"It sounds like this might be worth exploring. Here's what I'd like to do — I'd love to swing by the property, take a quick look, and put together a real offer for you within 24 hours. No obligation, no pressure. Would [Day] at [Time] or [Day] at [Time] work better for you?"

[If they hesitate:] "I get it — let me do this. I'll put together some preliminary numbers based on what you've told me and send those over. If the range looks good, we can schedule a quick walkthrough. What's the best email or number to reach you?"

NOTES ON TONE AND DELIVERY

- Speak like a human, not a telemarketer. Contractions, pauses, and conversational filler ("honestly," "just," "real quick") build trust.
- Match their energy. If they're quiet, slow down. If they're chatty, let them talk — motivated sellers often tell you everything you need to know if you just listen.
- Never argue. If they say no, agree with them. "I totally get it" is your most powerful phrase.
- Smile when you talk. It changes your vocal tone more than you think.
- Stand up while calling. It gives you more energy and confidence.
- Your goal is NOT to close a deal on this call. Your goal is to get an appointment or permission to follow up.
- Log every call in your CRM immediately. Notes on motivation level, timeline, and property condition are gold for follow-ups.
